COURT SEASON ENDS QUIETLY

No Suffrage Demonstration at Closing of Royal Assembly.

London, June 5.—Tonight's court in Buckingham—the last of the season—was not disturbed by any suffragette demonstration. Stricter precautions were taken than on Thursday evening to scrutinize closely all the guests and their admission cards. There was no indication, however, that the militant suffragettes made any more serious attempt to procure admission to the court by improper means.

They were satisfied for the moment with the big advertisement they obtained last night by Miss Mary Blomfield prostrating herself before the king and queen and pleading that force be not used against women. They believe the action of Miss Blomfield will stimulate greatly the inflow of donations to the suffragette cause.

TRUST MEASURES PASS THE HOUSE

Three Bills are Sent to the Senate for Concurrence.—Opposition
Melts When Test Comes

Washington, June 5.—All three bills on the administration trust legislation program passed the house late today and were sent to the senate for action there.

Opposition melted away when the final test came and the voting went through quickly and without incident. The Covington Interstate commission bill was passed without a record vote, the Clayton omnibus anti-trust measure received 275 votes to 54 against it, and the vote on the Rayburn railroad capitalization bill was 325 to 12.

The clerk hardly had finished the last roll call before the house had settled down to consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill one of several supply measures that must be disposed of before the session ends. The adjournment problem now is up to the senate and the democratic leaders on that side of the capital are expected to agree upon a program in the near future.

Action on the trust bills in the house came rather unexpectedly. The three measures had been agreed to in committee of the whole after weeks of speech making, consideration of the Rayburn bill as amended by the committee being completed late this afternoon. When the trade commission bill came before the house for the final vote.

Progressive leader Murdock moved that it be sent back to the Interstate committee with instructions to report the Murdock bill as a substitute. This was rejected 151 to 19, and the pending bill was passed without a roll call. Then the votes on the other two measures were taken in rapid succession. Representative White of Ohio was the only democrat to vote against the Clayton bill and all the progressives for it, except Representative Chandler of New York. Forty-three republicans and 16 progressives joined the major-

Quebec, June 6. The British steamship Alsadam was reported ashore shortly after midnight near Farther Point where the steamship Empress of Ireland was wrecked. The warship Essex got the report and sent out wireless messages asking the station at Farther Point to confirm the story. A heavy snow storm was sweeping the coast at the time and at 12.55 a. m. the Essex proceeded slowly in search of the disabled craft.

POLICE AUTO IN ACTION.

Dover Mayor Fails to Stop Its Operation—Police Board
Paying Expenses.

The police department of Dover appears to pay no attention to the acts of Mayor Posa, who has placed an injunction on the police commission and Chief of Police, restraining them from using any of the funds of the city for the maintenance or operation of the auto patrol which the police commissioners recently purchased. The police department ordered the patrol out on Friday and the same is being used at the expense of the police commissioners. The feeling between the Mayor and the board which came to the surface when the patrol was purchased is causing no end of trouble in the Cocheco city and the light is being watched with great interest by the people there, especially the politicians.

LAND ARMS FOR REBEL FORCES

News of Discharge of Cargo at Tampico by American Ship is Received
Quietly at Washington

Washington, June 5.—Information reached Washington late today that the American schooner Sunshine, from Galveston had landed ammunition at Tampico for the Mexican Constitutionalists without interference on the part of the United States or the Huerta government, was received in official quarters here without comment.

From various sources it was learned that the presence of the Sunshine at Tampico with arms aboard consigned to the Constitutionalists has been known to the Washington government for several days. In view of the fact that there had been considerable apprehension regarding the attitude the United States might take toward the landing of ammunition at this Mexican port, the actual delivery of munitions was regarded as significant.

With the Cuban steamer Antilla en route from New York to Tampico, with arms consigned to Carranza's forces, there has been much speculation as to what the United States would do in case the Huerta government should attempt to blockade the port.

Every indication tonight, however, maintains the previously announced position that Tampico was an open port. The movement of arms pending results of mediation at Niagara Falls and their removal to the Constitutionalists to participate in the peace negotiations have been followed by rumors

COAL TEAM DEFEAT THE MARINES IN EXTRA INNING

Postponed Game Goes to Consolidation After Pitchers Battle, Pilgrim Allowing But Two Hits.

The Consolidation Coal Company for Dowdell Cragen struck out. One team defeated the Marines in a six inning postponed game at the Sunset League schedule on Friday evening. It was a fast game with the coal team playing the steadier ball and gave Pilgrim, who was in good form, fine support. The only allowed two hits both made by Mims. The Marines scored their two runs in the third, when after two men were down, Letch drew a pass and stole second, scoring on Mims single, and he later scored on Estabrook's error from Moll's grounder. The Consolidation tied up the game in the fifth, Pilgrim singled and went around on Bruce's single, to left, and he scored on Dowdell's single over second.

The game was won in the last of the sixth, when Remick singled to right and Cragen running for him stole second, Bailey beat out an infield hit and they pulled off a double steal. Smart struck out. Pilgrim grounded to the infield and reached first when Cragen was presented from going home. Blaney was hit fanning in the winning run.

Five minutes lay discussion followed, but Letch stuck to his decision. Bennett, then batting for himself, fled out to Cragen, and Letch fled out to Remick. No runs.

Pilgrim singled over second. Blaney batting for Humphreys fanned. Bruce singled to left field. Dowdell singled through second and Pilgrim scored. Bruce dug for home but was muffed at the plate. Moll to Wiggins. Estabrook hit to Bennett who threw to second but failed to get Humphreys running.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Friday night's game was the most interesting of the season.
Did you notice that the longest hit made was only a single?
Bennett did well in not passing a man.
Pilgrim was about the whole cheese last night.
The effects of "charleyhorse" are showing up on some of the batters.
And just at the critical moment, Blaney didn't get a chance to hit.
Bruce has been having hard luck lately, but he is plucky.
Moll didn't get his usual hot liver.
Capt. Mims seemed slightly peeved over the batting order question.
The navy rooters were right there with the noise as usual.

THE SUMMER FEEDING OF POULTRY

More Succulent Food and Less Fat
Forming Food is Best
A. F. HUNTER

The summer feeding of poultry should be different from cold weather feeding, and when the feeding is right, the poultry may be profitably profitable in summer. It is too frequently an unprofitable part of the farm. The most important change in the ration is a lessening of the fat forming food, which will effect a lowering of the animal heat and increase the bodily comfort, and we should increase the proportion of succulent (or green) food.

On most farms the hens are kept closely confined in summer to prevent raids upon the garden and growing crops. This confinement in a hen-house and yard cuts them off from needed exercise and equally needed green food. To balance these defects there should be a widening of the grain ration, and green food should be liberally supplied. There should be an increase of wheat, bran and middlings in the mash mixture and a cutting down of the proportion of whole (or cracked) corn that is fed. In extremely hot weather no corn whatever should be fed, the whole grain feed being wheat, oats and a little barley.

Provide Plenty of Shade

The hens should be as cool as possible in summer, and to that end the house should be very much open in front, so they will be comfortably cool at night. And there should be shady leading places in which the birds may pass the hotter hours of the day. If there is no natural shade, as of fruit trees, a shed roof 6 by 8 feet in size, two feet high at the back and three feet high in front, the roof sloping to the south should be put up for the birds to take refuge under. A simple shelter of this type will pay for itself over and over again. Abundant green food must be fed. This may be vegetable tops or weeds from garden, lawn mower clippings, etc. There is wide range of choice, as almost everything that is fresh and succulent will be relished by fowls that are confined.

And abundant drink must be supplied. They should have all the fresh clean water they will drink and may also be given all the skim milk they will drink. Milk is best fed sour, but should be always sweet or always sour. Milk is good for fowls at all times and is especially good in warm weather, but water they must have. It is best to have two drinking pans or fountains, one for fresh water and the other for milk and they must be

SOME SECRETS OF SWEET CORN

Quality is What Counts.
P. K. EDWARDS

Nearly every one plants sweet corn of some kind in the garden. When we refer to it, however, we mean "quality" sweet corn, that delectable melting feast of sweetness which the average gardener gets from his hill only two or three times a season.

But to have a continuous supply of the best corn in the best condition one must know just how to arrange for it, when to pick it and how to cook it. Now there are two methods of raising it, either by repeated plantings at intervals of one or two weeks or by planting several varieties at one time, selected to mature in succession so a supply for several weeks may be had from a single planting, so that only two plantings will be required. Each plan has its good points. Where space is limited successive planting will, of course, be preferable, and the matter of variety as governing quality is also important.

New Varieties

Of the several different kinds the following varieties have been tried with success: Golden Rod, Golden Bantam, Hiawatha, Pochontas, Early Champion, Crosby's Early, the Henderson, Country Gentleman and Stowell's Evergreen. The Golden Rod is a cross between Stowell's Evergreen and Golden Bantam and is a happy combination of blending the good qualities of both. It is one of the "mid-season" varieties. Henderson's Pochontas is an extra early variety, and, while not equal to some of the later kinds, it is well worth a place in the garden. Several other familiar varieties—namely, the Golden Bantam and Country Gentleman, also have that deliciously noted sweet flavor of the Golden Rod and Hiawatha.

The land for corn should be thoroughly manured, or lacking manure, use a liberal amount of market garden brand of commercial fertilizer or a mixture known as 4-8-11—that is, 4 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphorus and 11 per cent potash in addition to this a good handful of hen manure in the bottom of each hill, with a little earth spread over it, is one of the very best manures for corn, and at the second hoeing work a handful of nitrate of soda into the soil about the hills. Plant the corn in drills, dropping the seed about nine inches apart and run the rows, east and west if possible, but do not "hill up," for like other shallow rooted plants, corn feeds near the surface, and if we keep heaping up the earth around the stalk the roots, which have wandered off, are partly uncovered.

HAYING TIME

Eight Tons an Acre
JOHN ASHLEY

It is said the average crop of hay per acre is one ton for the first mowing and if the weather is favorable a half a ton for the second. The selling price for this amounts to about $27 the cost of producing and harvesting it.

In contrast to this, there is the case of a man who had a small village farm, devoted to a garden, a bit of lawn and a few acres of grass land and all reserved for crops for his horse and cow. From the grass land he averaged between eight and ten tons of hay, and as his methods of seeding and care were very simple and easy to imitate it may be of interest to know something of them in detail. When the property was first purchased the new owner started in to improve it, going over the grass land with a double action cutaway harrow twice the first week in half laps and the second time at right angles to the first. He continued to do this until August, when the foot roots remaining were raked out and burned. An eight foot smoothing harrow with a leveling board attached was next used until the surface was true. The land was then plowed with a twenty-four inch cutaway plow to a depth of six inches, the disk being set at a considerable angle. Then the surface was again turned as before. Finally the field was harrowed weekly until the 1st of September.

Final Preparation

The land being level, it was left bare until spring and then was harrowed again and sowed to oats to be cut for hay. When this had been harvested the field was gone over twice in half laps with a double action harrow, the second time at right angles to the first. The second week it was plowed and harrowed and after that harrowed weekly for four weeks, followed by one more plowing. On Sept. 1 fourteen quarts each of timothy and reekened redtop were sown, and before harrowing in the seed 600 pounds of the following mixture of commercial fertilizer were carefully and evenly broadcasted: Nitrate of soda, 60 pounds; muriate of potash, 240 pounds; bonemeal, 200 pounds. The piece was then harrowed in four directions with a smoothing harrow. The following April the land was rolled and 450 pounds of the following fertilizer spread: Bone, 150 pounds; potash, 150 pounds; nitrate of soda, 150 pounds. The result of this thorough preparation and care is evidenced in the splendid appearance of the grass, although it has been seeded six years. Soon after the first crop had been cut 200 pounds of the spring fertilizer were broadcasted, and these two applications of fertilizer are given annually.

HELPING OUT PASTURES BY SOILING CROPS

JARED VAN WAGENEN, JR.

Thoughtful dairymen realize that, while in northern states cows are in the field five months, yet there are only about six weeks or two months when pasture alone is sufficient to enable them to do good work, so progressive dairymen are adopting some plan of supplementing pastures, and thus maintaining a better flow of milk throughout the year. There are various ways of doing this. Merely feeding grain in connection with scanty pasture is expensive and unsatisfactory. The cost is too great. Besides, what is needed is some form of fresh, succulent food rather than dry grain.

It is possible to plan a succession of soiling crops which maintain a constant supply of green food throughout the summer. He may plan to sow in the fall to furnish green rye in early spring. This may be followed ten days later by green wheat, which may be followed by alfalfa, which can be fed until the first cutting of red clover. When the clover begins to harden a plot of peas and oats will just be coming into head, and if there have been two or three sowings of these a week or ten days apart they will last until the early corn is ready to feed, and the corn—first the early and then the later varieties—will last until frost. It would even be possible to add a crop of rape to feed until cold weather.

Now, the foregoing is a very fine

REBEL LEADER TO KEEP THE MEDIATION WAITING

Washington, June 5.—Carranza's statement that he will not reply to the last note of the South American envoys until he shall have reached Saltillo from Durango confirmed the belief of Administration officials today that the Constitutionalists' final attitude toward entering the Niagara conference would not be known for three or four days. Hopful feeling, expressed at Niagara Falls, that Carranza would decide to take part in the proceedings was reflected here. The statement of Rafael Zarama, the Constitutional chief representative, in Washington attracted wide-spread attention.

"Affairs are getting better," he said when asked about the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before late Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the Administration continued their conferences with Carranza's agents, urging them to recommend that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators.

Officials of the state and Navy Departments meanwhile are occupied with plans for meeting any situation that may arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huerta's ships had made no move to leave. They will continue under the surveillance of the American men of war.

Shipments of arms for Carranza that left New York and Galveston are likely to reach their destinations unimpeded. It was believed here today. While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, two steamships sailed with war cargoes, through failure of the State Department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

Whether the American Government might stop these shipments at Tampico is a question upon which no definite official light had been thrown today.

theory of cow feeding, but it doesn't work in practice. Some crops may be partial failures and some may be used before the next is ready. Also, soiling cows means cutting and drawing green food every day regardless of weather conditions or what other work presses. All these considerations have led the writer to feel that there is just one best way to supplement pastures, and that is by feeding when needed corn silage put in the previous autumn.

There are several reasons why this is the best way. One is that the possible food production from an acre of

The Innovation-Hesitation Waltz

THIS is one of the prettiest and most graceful methods of dancing the waltz, but is very difficult on a crowded floor, as it is impossible to lead the girl out of the way of the other dancers, and the occasional bumps throw one out of step and spoil the whole effect of the dance. The same steps are used as in the ordinary hesitation, the only difference being that the partners do not touch each other at all. To do the best work in this remember to keep as erect as possible throughout and never get more than a foot away from your partner.

CASE CAME UP FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The case of Arthur E. Joy, of 65 West street, against Michael Mooney of 800 Islington street, was continued until the afternoon session of police court, at 4 o'clock. Joy, a motorman on the Portsmouth Electric Railway, states that his children were badly frightened, and one of them is suffering from nervous breakdown, an account of the shot fired Wednesday afternoon by Mr. Mooney. It appears that the three children of Mr. Joy, and another child named Griffin, were wandering through the Jones Brewery yard and had strolled across into Mr. Mooney's field, when they were terrified by the discharge of a gun. Mooney says that the shot contained only powder and it was meant to scare the children away, but they say that they heard the shots drop around them. Mooney is under bonds to appear at the afternoon session of police court. He was found guilty and fined $20 and costs and appealed.

Value of Sanitation.

While on general principles war is to be deplored, one exceeding great benefit has come not only to this country, but to all that will pay heed, through the military operations of the United States in recent years. This is the demonstration of what can be accomplished by means of scientific sanitation for the prevention of disease and the promotion of the health of the army and the public.

All are aware of the mighty revolution in sanitary conditions that was effected in Cuba by the United States authorities. Havana was formerly a favorite stamping ground of yellow fever, which has been wiped out by improved sanitation, and the city is now as healthful as any other. The change in conditions in Panama since the United States took hold of the canal project is one of the wonders of the world, greater in reality, though not so spectacular, as the building of the world-famed waterway. The canal zone was a hotbed of diseases such as prevail in tropical climates where sanitation is neglected, as it is in most such climates, and today it is pronounced fit for a health resort. Fortunately this change was not brought about through war, but the same means that protect the army were employed and the results constitute a valuable lesson to the civilized world. A Texas paper speaks at length and with the highest commendation of the sanitation work done in the camps there, where thousands of troops have been stationed for more than a year. It tells how the breeding places of disease were stamped out by scientific sanitation and how sanitary regulations were made as inflexible as any disciplinary order for the control of the men. As a result the camp is practically a large health resort. There has not been a single case of typhoid fever. For this immunity inoculation for the prevention of the disease may be responsible to some extent, but scientific sanitation is the bedrock on which rests the remarkable healthfulness of the troops.

The Texas paper naturally and correctly concludes that what has been done by the army along these lines should be studied and imitated by communities everywhere. It is true that more attention is being given to sanitation today than ever before. Progressive cities and towns are alive to the importance of the subject, and others cannot fall into line too soon. True is the old saying, "Prevention is better than cure," and it is equally true that sanitation is the most effective means for the prevention of disease.

People who have been reading for years in the Troy, N. Y., Times the letters of The Hermit of New York, who is Rev. Washington Frothingham of Fonda, N. Y., 94 years old, were surprised a few days ago by the announcement of his marriage to his second wife, which took place 14 years ago. It was kept secret for reasons of their own, and is a splendid illustration of the recognized truth that the judicious writer is one who knows what not to print.

The New York court of appeals decides that William Sulzer ceased to be governor at the close of the impeachment proceedings, and that he is not entitled to his salary from that time, for which he put in a claim. Mr. Sulzer's counsel propose to take the case to the United States supreme court. In such a course there may be something for them, but nothing for the ex-governor aside from further humiliation, if such a thing be possible.

According to popular belief the government watchman who placed dynamite under one of the offices the other day in the hope of gaining promotion by timely discovery and the prevention of damage was not entirely original in his enterprise. There is a strong conviction that dynamite has been used in other cases for purposes of "influence" rather than destruction.

The Massachusetts legislature is enacting a law for the regulation of barbers very considerably exempts the "handy man on the farm" who occasionally cuts the hair or trims the whiskers of his boss or fellow workman. Thus is perpetuated in the country "deestricks" the proper care of facial alfalfa and the sacredness of the "punkinshell" hair cut.

At the commencement exercises of a small eastern educational institution the other day there were 12 graduates who represented six nationalities. What more appropriate name for the United States than the "melting pot of the world."

Since 1908, when Lieutenant Selfridge was killed at Fort Myer, 462 aviators have been killed in different parts of the world. In view of such a record it is no wonder that aviation is spoken of as "not entirely safe."

Captains In River Horror Who Blame Each Other For Accident.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

CAPTAIN H. G. KENDALL. CAPTAIN THOMAS ANDERSEN.

Here are the two sea captains whose stories differ as to the responsibility for the disaster of the St. Lawrence river, in which over 1,000 lost their lives and about 450 were rescued. Captain Kendall commanded the Empress, and Captain Andersen was in charge of the Collier Storstad, which ran aground and sank the river. Each blames the other, in so many words, for the accident. They were both subpoenaed to testify before the government court of inquiry at Quebec beginning June 9.

SEVERE TESTS FOR THESE JOBS.

Prospective Consuls Must Pass Examinations That Would Stump Many.

Do you know anything about the Taping rebellion? What did the treaty of Prague accomplish? What is your idea concerning the ordinance of 1787? Can you make any observations concerning the relations of that money to the creation of wealth? Can you translate French or German, and then translate it back again, so that the final product will bear any resemblance to the original one? Can you tell a merchant what price to put on his goods so that he may give a trade discount of 12 1/2 per cent., lose 16 2/3 per cent. by bad debts, and make a profit of 14 2/7 per cent.? What rate of insurance may be legally charged on a respondentia bond? What have you to say concerning the difference between citizenship and domicile?

If you cannot answer such simple questions as these, or others that are similar, there is not the slightest use in coming to Washington and taking the examination such as 135 young men took recently in pursuance of an ambition to be United States consuls. The consul who gets appointed nowadays must come nearer to knowing something about everything than any other employee of the government.

Persons who have looked over typical examination papers placed before the candidates for consulships have no hesitation in declaring that not one of the ten members of President Wilson's cabinet could pass, that even Mr. Wilson himself would probably fail to make 80 per cent. in a possible 100, and that the entire membership of the Senate and the House of Representatives there is not a statesman who could make out a paper that would get past the examiners.

Government examinations for many places are notoriously difficult, but for consulships the obstacles and the traps placed in the path of the unwary are simply appalling. At least three-quarters of those who take the examinations for places in the foreign service of the United States fail. They find themselves confronted by questions dealing with subjects of which they never dreamed. They are in the position of the candidate for a government clerkship that paid a very moderate salary who found this question on one of the papers laid before him:

"How many Hessians were sent to America by England during the revolutionary war?"

The candidate did not waste much time over it. He wrote:

"A damn sight more than ever went back."

It is said that this particular candidate landed the job he was after, but if he were running for consul that sort of an answer would not satisfy the cold-blooded examiners.

There are 241 consulates of the United States scattered all over the world, and only 26 of them are vacant. There are 84 consulates general, in which there are only three vacancies. If the present examination produces enough successful candidates to supply the existing vacancies, it will be regarded as a highly successful one. But even those who pass are not ready to be sent abroad in the service of the government. They must first go to school, where they receive about six weeks' instruction in the intricacies of their jobs. It may develop in this course of schooling that some of those who managed to get past the examinations show untimeliness or impatience for the work and are weeded out before the President ever begins to consider the list of names that he will send to the Senate for confirmation.

Intending consuls must undergo oral and written examinations and must know at least one modern language other than English. They must display business ability, alertness and natural fitness, must possess moral, mental and physical qualifications and must have the necessary character, address, general education and command of English that the government expects of a foreign representative. They must be at least 21 years old and not over 50, and are also required to be citizens of the United States. Even before they come to Washington to take the examination, they must be designated for that purpose by the President.

The 135 candidates now in Washington are wrestling with questions that would give cause to a college professor. The first subject they are required to write upon deals with international, maritime and commercial law. In a recent examination on this topic consular candidates found this to be one of the problems:

"A vessel being overdue, her owners took out insurance to cover vessel and cargo. It subsequently appeared that when such insurance was taken out the vessel had already been wrecked and the cargo lost. Can the owners collect the insurance?"

After the candidates have finished such questions they come to political and commercial geography. Here is one question under the head that may sound simple, yet how many persons can answer it?

"Name eight bodies of water through which a ship would pass on a direct voyage from Baltimore to Odessa."

Arithmetic and modern languages do not present such difficulties to a well-schooled candidate, but when he arrives at subsequent subjects he discovers that he must have some ideas that do not come out of text books. He must discuss, under the head of "natural, industrial and commercial resources of the United States," such subjects as petroleum, bituminous coal and boats and shoes, with reference to their volume, exportation and centres of production. Under the head of political economy, he is asked to discuss briefly international trade, both as to its origin and its influence upon international policies. The government also asks him to tell what factor ultimately fixes monopoly prices, a subject upon which all the statesmen on Capitol Hill reach no agreement after years of talk.

What is known as the seventh subject embraces American history, government and institutions. Under this head the candidate is asked to describe the territorial growth of the United States since the adoption of the constitution in not more than 300 words. He is also likely to be asked, for an account of Wolfe's campaign against Quebec, for a definition of Dorr's rebellion, and to mention two important functions usually exercised by the governor of a State.

WOMAN NAMED NEW OILBURNER

Descendant of Fulton Christened Naval Submarine Mother Ship.

Mrs. Alice Gray Sutcliffe, the only living direct descendant of Robert Fulton, builder of the first steamship, was the sponsor this morning for the submarine tender Fulton, launched at the Portsmouth shipyard, Quincy, at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Sutcliffe is a great granddaughter of the inventor, resides in New York and was prominent there during the Fulton celebration recently held in that city.

Oil Burning Engines

The Fulton is the first submarine tender to be built for the United States navy. She is being constructed from plans of the New London Ship and Engine Company of Groton, Ct. The Fulton will be the first vessel exclusive of submarine boats to be built here equipped with Diesel heavy oil-burning engines. There are a number of German merchant vessels using Diesel engines and American shippers and shipbuilders are watching with interest the progress of the Fulton, as she is not being constructed according to navy specifications, as are other naval vessels, but on the lines of a merchant vessel.

She will act as a "mother ship" to submarine flotillas. The Fulton is 226 feet over all and her engines develop 1000 horse power, giving her an estimated speed of 14 knots. Two hundred guests will leave Boston on the 7.45 train from Boston to Quincy this morning. Special trolley cars will meet the party at the Quincy depot.

ANIMALS PARTICULAR WITH LATENA'S BIG WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS

To those who may linger on the circus grounds when the parade of the La Tena Big Three Ring Animal Circus returns to the big tents, it may appear that the massive cages and dens of animals placed indiscriminately in the menagerie tent, but this is not the case.

It is necessary for the peace of the animal family that the arrangement be the same day after day. If the lion cage originally is first, the monkey cage next, the polar bear next, the seals next, the hippopotamus next and so on down one side of the menagerie tent and back on the other one day. The ends of the cages are closed so that the animals cannot see their neighbors, but they can smell them. And change of order among the dens will promptly start something in the zoo.

When the La Tena Wild Animal Circus comes to town, the patrons can gain much interesting information by closely observing the menagerie.

The grand, free parade will start promptly from the lot at ten o'clock in the morning and the magnificent cavalcade with its many golden chariots and every edge of wild beast will be open, so that all may see them, thus making the show different from the rest.

It will exhibit here on Wednesday, June 10th.

CURRENT OPINION

College Man to Blame for Destructive Criticism.

We of the United States today are suffering from the destructive criticism of those who are incompetent to improve the conditions at which they are so ready to rail and to the reform of which they are willing to devote themselves at so much per week, month or year.

The so-called educated man, meaning the man of school, college and books, is to blame far more than the less favored man if he by his ill considered words leads others astray.

As long as public utilities and other industries are in private hands responsibility is definitely lodged and those accountable for their acts can be reached. The minute government becomes proprietor—the whole relation to the public of a given industry changes vividly—it is dumped in with many other transactions, and its acts become the mysterious fetters of officialdom.—By Dr. Alexander C. Humphreys, President Stevens Institute of Technology.

PLACID CHINESE WOMEN.

An Illustration of How Well Their Emotions Are Hidden.

"Chinese women are trained to show no emotion, to appear absolutely placid under all circumstances," says Elizabeth Cooper, author of "My Lady of the Chinese Courtyard." "I saw it illustrated at a reception given to the wife of one of the high Chinese officials. All the women of the foreign official colony were at my home, about forty in number, and the great lady was announced. Every one rose. The room was a very long one, about seventy-five feet, and had a very highly polished floor covered with Persian rugs.

"The Chinese lady came to the doorway, with a servant on each side of her to help her walk upon her tiny bound feet. At the entrance they left her, and she started to come to me; but, being almost helpless upon her 'golden lilies,' she stepped upon a rug, which slid upon the polished floor, and instead of swaying like the bamboo in the breeze as she came to me she sat down suddenly and slid to my feet to the consternation and horror of the assembled guests.

"She was raised to her feet, and, although she must have been covered with confusion and embarrassment thus to make her first appearance into a foreign home, she gave her hand to me without a trace of emotion visible in her face or manner nor did she apologize. One would think by her appearance that it was the usual mode of entrance into a room."

DECLINES THE PROPOSITION

Candidate Spaulding Will Not Enter Into Debate With Pillsbury.

Rochester, N. H., June 5, 1914.—Hon. Rolland H. Spaulding, candidate for the republican nomination for governor at the September primaries has declined the proposition of Hon. Rosecrans W. Pillsbury, who is likewise a candidate for Governor, for a series of twenty joint debates. Mr. Spaulding's letter, in answer to the one which was sent him by Mr. Pillsbury and made public at the same time, is as follows: "Hon. Rosecrans W. Pillsbury, Londonderry, N. H.

"My dear Mr. Pillsbury—Your open letter of June 3d, in which you invite me to a series of joint debates, preliminary to the primaries of next September, is at hand.

In reply thereto I wish to call your attention to the brief statement which I made when I announced my candidacy. It was with the greatest reluctance that I agreed to become a candidate and it was only at the solicitation of a great many staunch republicans, as well as independent citizens, who were kind enough to assert that my candidacy would strengthen the party, lead to victory in November and be in the interests of good government. In this situation, purely from a feeling of public duty, I hadly was prevailed upon by such arguments. For me to engage in any debate as to the validity of these statements or my qualifications for the office would be exceedingly distasteful to me. As I stated, I prefer to leave the whole matter entirely to the judgment of the republicans of New Hampshire, to act as they deem to be for the greatest good of the party and of the state.

"I am perfectly willing that you should appeal to the voters in the interests of your candidacy in any manner that seems advisable to you. But for the reasons I have stated, I must respectfully decline to take part in any joint debates such as you propose.

"With kindest regards, I remain, Yours sincerely,
"ROLLAND H. SPAULDING."

NAVAL NOTES

The naval appropriation bill will soon be sent to conference, and 150 conferees are ready to begin their labors. The conferees on the part of the senate will be Senators Benjamin R. Tillman, of South Carolina; Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; and George C. Perkins, of California. The house will be represented by Lemuel C. Fugate, of Tennessee; Joshua Talbot, of Maryland; and Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania. Before the house permits the naval bill to go to conference a separate vote probably will be demanded on the proposition to add the battleship Idaho and the Mississippi to Greece and construct a dreadnaught in their place. Friends of the navy will have much difficulty in getting this proposition accepted. It is known that nearly all the leaders of the house on both the republican and democratic sides will oppose the project.

Yory High defeated the Atlantic Shore railway in a loosely played game on the high school grounds yesterday afternoon, score 13 to 12. Batteries, Railroad—England and Tobey, York High School—Emery and Duval. The game was slow and rather uninteresting. The Kittery boys are kicking over the decisions of Mitchell, the York umpire, and spectators of the game say that they had good reason to kick.

This is the last game the railroad boys will play owing to the summer schedule going into effect in the near future.

BIG STRIKE AT PITTSBURG

Upwards of 10,000 Employees of the Westinghouse Plant Go Out.

Pittsburg, June 5.—The 10,000 workmen employed by the Westinghouse interests in East Pittsburg went on strike Friday. Beginning at 7 o'clock in the morning when 3000 men refused to go to work, the call of the Allegheny Congregational Industrial Union for a walkout was gradually obeyed until 10,000 men had joined the ranks of the strikers and not a wheel in the vast electrical works moved during the afternoon.

Delegates from each of the 40 departments held a meeting tonight to deliberate over the question of extending the strike to other industries. The Allegheny Congregational Industrial Union an organization formed here last February has members employed by the Rankin and Edgar Thompson plants of the Carnegie Steel Company, the Union Switch and Signal Company and the McElwain Marshall Construction Company.

Delegates representing this membership conferred with the Westinghouse strikers today as to what action they should take and at that time were advised to continue at work. Tonight, however, the general executive strike committee had a meeting to consider further this phase of the strike.

It is claimed the membership of the organization in these other concerns totals 15,000.

There was no trouble during the day. The strikers paraded the streets and held several meetings, at which addresses were made urging the strikers to remain firm and avoid acts of violence.

As a precautionary measure however, the burgesses of East Pittsburg and Turtle Creek appointed extra deputies from the ranks of the strikers. The men were warned by the borough authorities that the first act of violence would result in calling the sheriff of Allegheny county and Pennsylvania State Constabulary.

There was little talk by the strike leaders during the day. Officials of the company issued a statement that a part of the working forces had failed to report for duty; that owing to a falling off of business since last November it became necessary to make a reduction in the working forces of the working hours and that the latter were shortened.

The men are demanding recognition of the union, better working conditions and the elimination of the bonus, premium and piece system.

It is said that 200 college students sent to the electrical works from various educational institutions in the U. S. became dissatisfied today when they were asked to work not in line with their training. The students are under a two year contract.

RATED ALIKE.

President Wilson and Mr. Taft are in Same Category as Golf Players.

President Wilson and William Howard Taft are rated alike as golf players in the latest chart of handicaps made up by the Columbia Country Club. They are allowed a handicap of sixteen strokes each over par for the course, which is seventy-two. This places them in the rank of medium good golfers.

Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark, both members of the club, are not rated at all. This is no slight, however, for neither ever has appeared on the course.

Representative Woodson R. Gibson, of Yorkers, N. Y., is put down in the ratings as the best golfer in public life. His handicap is only eleven. He has done the course often in eighty-three ones in eighty.

Here are the ratings of other members of Congress who are members of the club: Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, 16; Senator Smoot, of Delaware, 14; Senator Walsh, of Montana, 21; Senator Brewster, of Kansas, 20; Senator Cummings, of Iowa, 17; Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, 18; Senator Hollis, of New Hampshire, 15; Senator Townsend, of Michigan, 22; and Senator O'Gorman, of New York, 24.

TO EXAMINE WRECK OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND

Quebec, June 5.—The cruiser Essex was prepared to leave here some time today for Father Point, where her divers will attempt an inspection of the wreck of the steamship Empress of Ireland.

The Essex has a modern outfit for submarine work, and her divers will probably be able to penetrate the corridors of the sunken vessel. Nearly 800 bodies are believed to be in the hull.

'GAMBLING IN HUMAN LIVES'

Premier Holman of New South Wales Bitterly Criticises Directors of Steamship Line.

Sydney, Australia, June 5.—Premier William A. Holman of New South Wales, whose comments on the loss of the Empress of Ireland have given rise to much criticism, today said in a message of sympathy in connection with the disaster he said:

"I expect that the inquiry will end in the condemnation of some unfortunate second mate or seaman. There will be no safety for the traveling public until directors of the companies which send 1500 people to sea, in a ship capable of being destroyed in 15 minutes, are put on trial as accessories to manslaughter. I hope that the Canadian Government will deal with the calamity in that spirit. I am not saying who is innocent or who guilty. But if the disaster was due to human failing, the people who make money by gambling in human lives ought to be punished."

Today the Premier said: "The fact that the commercial men who agreed to send the public of Canada to Europe did in fact send them to the next world is sufficient to put them on trial."

BUILDING A MOUNTAIN.

They're Even Putting Mines Into the Completed Structure.

A real mountain is being constructed right in the center of the colossal building known as the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The peak of this mountain will be over fifty feet high, its total height about 160 feet and its base about 150 by 200 feet.

Its slopes will be divided into quadrants, one facing each of the main entrances, and each section finished to represent one or more main divisions of the mining industry.

On one quarter will be represented the face of a mine, with all the wells, derricks and gashers, models of field storage, pipe lines, oil tanks, etc., many of them in actual operation. This unique exhibit will face and supplement the floor exhibits from all over the world, illustrating variations and details of oil equipment, besides an educational exhibit in oils, says a writer in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

A second quarter of the mountain will depict placer mining in all phases, from the crude pan and rocker of the

The copper-mining industry will occupy the third quadrant, with tunnels and various types of smelters. The fourth quadrant will represent in still greater detail all phases of the quartz-mining industry. Many quartz veins will be shown, one being prospected and another under full development, producing and fully equipped. A section of the mountain will be cut away on this side and a plate-glass front put in, behind which will be shown the various underground workings of shafts, tunnels, slopes, hoists, and the like. The mountain will also show details of the mining or production of gems, borax, magnesite, cement, and other materials. On account of its boldness, its unique features will condense the working details of California's mining industry in small compass, and its avoidance of wearisome duplication of exhibits, it is bound to attract the liveliest interest.

FEMININE PLUCK

Making Good on a Colorado Farm—She Even Acquired a First Class Husband.

The story of one woman's success as a homesteader is told by Mrs. Alice Campbell Smith, formerly of Hutchinson. And now the daughter Alice has won a claim for herself by her own honest and hard work on the frontier in Eastern Colorado. Here is her own story:

"When the Oklahoma country opened up I made up my mind that I was going to have a homestead—a farm of my own where I could have cows, chickens and all kinds of stock. It happened that in 1908 I met a lady from Eastern Colorado who told me that her husband had taken up land there and that if I so desired I could secure a piece of land near her. I was a young girl, but I was a girl with a will, and I was a girl with a plan. I went to the United States land office and got a plan and picked a claim four miles from that of my new-made friend. I cannot tell you of the visions I had of the future and what I was going to do. I was then working as a domestic in Hutchinson, Kan. Well, the time came for me to get on to my land. I was unable to hire help at that time to put up a cabin. I went to Pueblo to get a horse and buggy that I had purchased there, and of which I was in need. I had never driven a horse before in my life, but I started out on the return home driving my horse, and it took two days and a half to make the journey.

The second night I stopped at a sheep camp and asked the man if I could get shelter for myself and horse. He told me to go to the house and he would look after the horse. You can imagine my surprise when I went to the house to find that there was no woman there within twenty miles. The man and my supper, and showed me to a room for the night, and then cooked breakfast for me and directed me on my way. He showed me every kindness and courtesy.

"On my way in the morning I came to a big gate that I could not open. After following the fence for a way without learning how to proceed a couple of cowboys rode up and upon learning my predicament broke the fence down and drove over the wires. Late that night I was back home and the next morning was surprised to learn that during my absence the neighbors had arranged to spend a day with me and put up the cabin. This was a big help and I prepared a dinner for the whole bunch, and we had a great time.

I will never forget the first night in that cabin away out on the prairie, with the wolves howling all around. I was not afraid and was so proud of my own home. After being raised in a great city, I just loved the life out on the homestead. Winter coming on I went to Denver and worked in a restaurant, saving all the money possible and in the spring returned. The first thing I did was to purchase a cow, a black Holstein, and two dozen chickens.

I hired a steam plow to come and break 15 acres of land for me which I myself planted with corn, getting 35 bushels an acre from it. That summer I raised 75 chickens, had my stockholdings increased by a calf, which I sold for $10 the first returns from my venture. I also put in a fine garden and it seemed as though every seed came up. I had the first sweet corn in that part of the country and went to town and sold it to the people there.

In the spring there was a change in the homestead law, and I being lucky succeeded in getting another 60 acres adjoining me on the west. That whole summer I spent at hard work, improving my surroundings and cultivating the soil, and the winter that followed was a severe one, but with caring for my stock I was kept busy. At one time there was such a storm that I was unable to get out of the cabin for 30 hours and when I did I had to dig, and also dig a tunnel to get into the stable to care for the stock.

"One experience I had was when I gave my cow some frozen potatoes and she choked, finally I rolled up my sleeve and shoved my arm down her throat just as far as I could reach and up came Mr. Spud, and from that time on my cow got no more frozen potatoes. About Christmas I purchased two fine pigs and they developed into regular pigs, and I used to go on and play with them when they were nothing else to do. They soon raised a family and I was launched in the hog industry, which proved profitable. One day some men were passing with a herd of sheep and as one was sick they left it for me. With a little care it got well and thus, there was another member added to my family.

"During this time I had been corresponding with a good man, and by this time having more work than I could do myself, and that good man being quite agreeable to sharing my house with me, we got married one April morning, and are still spending our honeymoon on our farm. The next year was a hard one, an absolute crop failure. My husband went to the city and worked all winter and I stood on the farm and looked after the stock. Since then we have enjoyed prosperity. Our stockholdings have steadily increased, our crops are each year larger, and this spring had six with four good horses and plenty of seed and implements to put in 160 acres of crops.

When I took up my claim six years ago I could not see many settlers, but today I can look both south and west and see the cultivated land, new homes and big barns. I can look west and see Pikes Peak, and on a clear morning distinguish the Summit House on the top. This homestead is the dearest place on earth to me, and now that the 320 acres are my own and the future looks so encouraging the sun shines brighter than it ever did before, and my husband and myself are determined to make this homestead Valley Park, a landmark in eastern Colorado, because for me it means health, wealth and happiness, and during the years of struggle and hard toil that are passed was the cause of peace and contentment that was nowhere else obtainable.—Denver Post.

VIOLINISTS UNMASKED.

Edison Tells the Secret of How They Strike the Right Note.

Thomas A. Edison, who has an expert knowledge of every human musical instrument, from the oboe to the violin, was discussing the great violinists of the present age. He spoke with deep feeling.

"I have to admit," he declared sadly, "that for a long time those fellows had me completely bewildered. I used to watch them in amazement. Every time one of them shot a finger halfway down the neck of his fiddle, and stopped it exactly in the right place for the sounding note I gasped in astonishment. Every time, it seemed, he could stop that finger correctly within one-thousandth of an inch. That's what he had to do in order to make the right note. And I concluded that he and his fellows were in some way superior to all other kinds of people in the matter of judging distances.

"But I know better now. After long and careful observation I have discovered the truth. Those fellows show their fingers up and down with an air of great confidence, but they never know exactly where the gutters will stop. Like any other human being, they guess at it. Then just as the note is begun by the scraping of the bow their trained ears catch the defect, and they readjust their fingers. Consequently, although the public doesn't know exactly where the fingers will stop, the world fills their work with a lot of notes that start falsely."—Popular Magazine.

The ceremony took place at St. John's church and was performed by Rev. Harold M. Folson, rector of St. John's, the impressive and ritualistic full Episcopal service being used.

The ushers were Mr. Robert MacLane, Mr. Lewis Rodman Page, both of Philadelphia; Mr. Frederick Gooding of this city; Mr. Goodwin Warner of Boston, friends of the groom, and Mr. Stephen Decatur Jr., and Mr. Storor Goodman Decatur, of Kittery Point, brothers of the bride.

Both the church and the residence at Kittery Point, where the reception took place, was decorated with greenery and cut flowers most effectively.

True Blue Class Presents the Drama, "The Country School."

The True Blue Class of the Pearl street Sunday School presented the drama, "The Country School," at the church vestry on Friday evening. Although the weather was unfavorable, there was a large attendance and about $20 was realized. This was the first attempt of the class as entertainers and those taking part deserve great credit for their work.

Mrs. G. L. Frisbie presided at the piano and after several types of old school days, the curtain was drawn aside disclosing a rustic school yard with the scholars at play. The bell rang and the scholars took their seats in the old school in the rear, with its crude benches, old fashioned stove and countrified desk.
